MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – The Naval Observatory posted "Four o'clock. Nothing to report." at 4 p.m.

They open again Tuesday from 9 to 5.

Monday's totals were the first new count since Friday. The counters closed on Nov. 13 at 103.7 million asked and 64.0 million answered, up from 103.5 million and 63.6 million on Nov. 12. They stayed closed through Sunday, and those Friday figures stood until the doors opened again Monday morning.

The observatory's daily notice has not changed. At 4 p.m. on Friday, 43 days, or 1,032 hours, after the clocks changed, it posted "Four o'clock. Nothing to report." On Sunday, at 45 days, or 1,080 hours, it posted the same words.

"Forty days. It rained on the dome all morning, and we're still here," she said then.

Replacement compressor is a week away in Ohio; Iris Wynn says nothing was broken

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16

Volunteers carried 41,206 discs from the Archive's warming vault on Crown Hill to the Hotel Meridian's Starlight Roof on Monday, after the chiller compressor at the old EBC building seized before dawn.

The compressor was found seized at about 4:40 a.m. By 6 a.m. the vault was 54 degrees and rising about a degree an hour. The replacement compressor is in Ohio, a week away.

At 7:15 a.m. the Hotel Meridian offered its Starlight Roof ballroom, which is held at 58 degrees, and about 100 volunteers were at the loading door by 8 a.m. They moved 825 steel cases from 1932, at 50 discs to a case. The last case reached the Roof at 6:50 p.m.

Nothing was broken, she said.

At 8 p.m. the Archive's evening program came from a folding table on the Starlight Roof bandstand. It was the first time since 1958 that its programs had shared a room with the microphone in KEPC's old roof studio.

About 230 people attended the Starlight Roof tea dance on Sunday, Nov. 8, the first on the newly sanded floor.

Lumber Talks

Argentina's 12 percent duty on American softwood starts Dec. 1; the governor flies home Monday night

Gov. Rina Tanaka's mill delegation, which left Yreka Sunday night, met President Callahan at the White House on Monday about Argentina's softwood tariff. EVENING STAR PHOTO

BY EVENING STAR STAFF

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – The meeting began at 9 a.m. Meridian time.

"He asked about the boards, and then he asked about the people who cut them. That's the right order," Tanaka's office said at 10:50 a.m., less than an hour after the meeting ended.

The governor flies home Monday night.

The delegation left Yreka aboard the governor's plane at 8:40 p.m. Sunday. It carried three coast mill owners and a millworker from Scotia, none of whom has been named.

Tanaka kept Beacon Night in Yreka before leaving for Washington. At 8:50 p.m. Sunday, her office said: "We kept the minute in Yreka, and now we're in the air. The boards are on the table at nine." Accounts differed on whether the words were the office's or the governor's own.

At noon Sunday, the White House said Callahan would keep the Quiet Minute at 8:15 p.m. Meridian time "like everybody else."

The meeting was set a week earlier. On Monday, Nov. 9, the White House announced at 11:30 a.m. that Callahan would meet Tanaka in Washington on Nov. 16 about the tariff. It gave no hour and named no one else who would attend.

The next morning, Tuesday, Nov. 10, Tanaka said in Yreka at 9:30 a.m. that she would bring three coast mill owners and a Scotia millworker to the White House.

Argentina describes its tariff on American softwood lumber as an answer to a United States duty on Argentine wine set in September.

Canadian Cutter Crew Boards at Victoria, Sails Tuesday for Bering Watch

Russian Republic patrol vessel leaves Petropavlovsk for Provideniya on Wednesday under the new pact

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – The crew of a Canadian Coast Guard cutter was aboard the ship at Victoria on Monday, and the cutter sails at first light Tuesday, Nov. 17, for the Bering watch, the Coast Guard said at 2 p.m.

The cutter, which the Coast Guard has not named, is one of two vessels heading for the Bering this week. A Russian Republic patrol vessel, also unnamed, leaves Petropavlovsk for Provideniya on Wednesday, Nov. 18, according to reports Monday.

Both ships are bound for the first season of joint winter patrols under a search-and-rescue pact that the Russian Republic and the United States signed in Moscow on Saturday, Nov. 7. Under the pact, joint winter patrols sail from Nome and Provideniya from Dec. 1, with a shared communications watch.

The American, Russian and Canadian coast guards hold their first joint communications check from Nome and Provideniya on Nov. 20, and the first joint winter patrol sails from Nome on Dec. 1.

At 9 a.m. Sunday, the Russian Republic said its Bering patrol vessel was fueled and provisioned at Petropavlovsk. The Canadian cutter had fueled at Victoria by Sunday, according to reports that day.

At 7:30 a.m. on Monday, Nov. 9, Ottawa said the Canadian Coast Guard would join the shared watch from

THE DAY IN BRIEF

The Minute Kept, and the Spit Light On

Meridian kept the Quiet Minute at 8:15 pm on Beacon Night, Sunday Nov 15, and the old Spit light came on at 8:16. The fire department and Coast Guard had no calls in that hour. The Long Table streets, Garrow Square and Water Street, reopened to cars at midnight, and the Monday commute ran through them.

Salt or Fresh, the Bill Passes

The Beacon Night bill passed the House 251-170 on Nov 13 with the Lakewood delegation's lake amendment, according to reports. It would make Nov 15 a federal holiday in future years, though not in 2026. The bill now sits in the Senate, where no date has been set.

The Mills' Numbers Go to Montevideo

The White House spoke briefly at 10:40 am Monday. "He listened for an hour and took notes," it said in a statement. "The mills' numbers go to Montevideo with our people."

The Neutral Chairs

Argentine trade minister Ignacio Larrabure said at 1 pm Meridian time that on the nineteenth "we will bring our own numbers." According to reports, both delegations accepted Uruguay's order of the day for Nov 19 in Montevideo: a morning session, lunch at one and an afternoon session, with a joint statement only if both sides sign.

The First Shipload Sails

A Scotia mill has sent the first of its two shiploads for Buenos Aires to sea, according to reports. The second shipload loads before Dec 1, and the mill's first cargo is already under way.

The Boards Are Ordered

Mexico's economy ministry said on Nov 13 that Mexican builders had placed their first new orders for Cascadia softwood. In the same statement, the ministry said Mexico will not follow Argentina's tariff.

A Starter in the Rio Dell Fire Hall Fridge

Tuesday's Evening Star reprints April 10, day 48 of Artemis IV, the paper said. It features Hazel Mott, 70, whose sourdough starter sits in the Rio Dell fire hall refrigerator in a crock with her name on the lid, though she remembers nothing of teaching the volunteers.

The Jetty Bell Hangs at King Salmon

The Jetty Bell hangs at the King Salmon boathouse and will stay there until the Winter Bar Series race on Nov 21. Nobody has said who took the bell or who hung it.

Hotel Board Waits on StarLift Letter

The Hotel Meridian board will not take up StarLift's letter of intent until after the city's Dec 3 study session, according to reports. Neither StarLift nor Harborline Air has filed anything with the city.

Moonball Season Ends; Semifinals Nov 18 and 19

The Moonball regular season ended Sunday, with the semifinals set for Nov 18 and 19. The Meridian Orbiters' last home game, on Nov 13, ended in a 4-3 loss to Arcadia Reentry.

Light Burns in Old North Spit Lamp Room, With No Lantern Inside

Steady white glow seen for about a minute at 8:15 pm from Woodley Island, the Embarcadero and Harbor View

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – A steady white light showed for about a minute in the lamp room of the old North Spit light at 8:15 pm Monday, the same minute Meridian kept its Quiet Minute the night before, and it was seen from Woodley Island, the Embarcadero and Harbor View.

The old light has no lantern. The volunteer keeper had carried it down at dawn after Beacon Night and locked the door.

At 8:50 pm, Sector Humboldt Bay said the Coast Guard had no light on the North Spit.

Plans announced Saturday called for Long Table street closures around Garrow Square and along Water Street from late morning, lantern boats at dusk, about 5 pm, on the ebb after the 2:34 pm high water, the Quiet Minute at 8:15 pm, and the old Spit light lit afterward.

At 8:25 pm Sunday, the city said the Quiet Minute had been kept across Meridian at 8:15 pm and that the old Spit light came on at 8:16. The fire department and the Coast Guard had no calls in that hour, the city said.

By Monday morning the lantern was down and the door was locked. That evening, at 8:15, the lamp room showed a light anyway.

Two More Counties Finish, and Corcoran Still Leads Bracco by 441

Margin of about 0.2 point would bring an automatic recount, which must be finished by Dec. 15

Wade Corcoran and Anita Bracco, 441 votes apart in Cascadia's 2nd District, opened new-member orientation in Washington on Monday. EVENING STAR PHOTO

BY EVENING STAR STAFF

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – Two more Cascadia counties finished checking their ballots Monday without changing the 2nd District count, the Secretary of State's office said at 3 p.m., leaving Wade Corcoran 441 votes ahead of Anita Bracco in a race neither candidate has claimed or conceded.

As counted, Corcoran has 120,171 votes and Bracco 119,730, a margin of about 0.2 point. A margin under half a point brings an automatic recount, and that recount would have to be finished by Dec. 15.

Counties must certify their results by Nov. 24, and the state certifies on Dec. 1.

While the counties work, both candidates were in Washington on Monday, where orientation for new members of Congress opened. The new Congress meets Jan. 3, 2027.

Monday. On Sunday at 11 a.m., the Secretary of State's office said the counties that canvassed over the weekend had found no change.

Every county began its canvass on Nov. 13, with observers from both 2nd District campaigns on hand. The day before, Secretary of State Luis Arriaga said at 1 p.m. that every careful ballot had been counted, about 814,300 statewide.

The campaigns have been content to wait. On Thursday, Corcoran's campaign said, "We'll wait for the counties like everybody else," and Bracco's said, "Four hundred forty-one is close enough to wait."

The candidates struck the same note on Nov. 9. "Still a lead, and still not a win," Corcoran said.

Bracco was ready for whatever the numbers bring. "If the law says count them again, we'll count them again," she said.

Artemis IV Crew Well as Third Week of Debriefs Begins in Houston

Astronauts mark 23rd night on land while Orion spends its 14th night at Kennedy

BY EVENING STAR STAFF

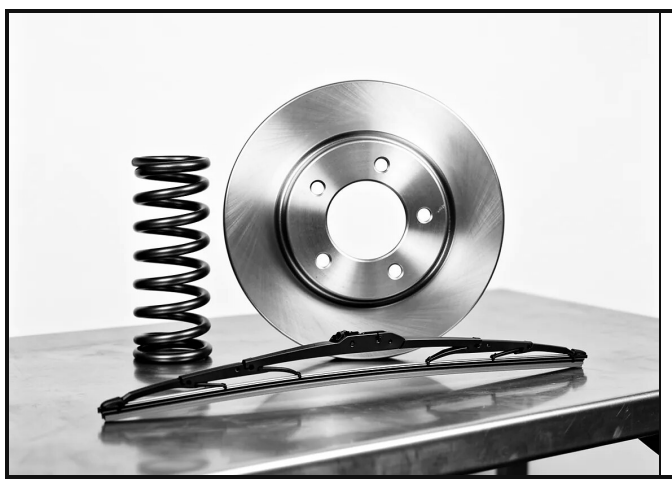

MERIDIAN, Nov. 16 – The four Artemis IV astronauts are well and in their third week of debriefs at Johnson Space Center, NASA said at 10 a.m. Monday, with Monday night marking their 23rd night on land.

Their spacecraft, Orion, spent its 14th night at Kennedy, the agency said. Its sample lockers stay sealed, and NASA has set no date for opening them. The next full update is scheduled for Nov. 23 at 10 a.m.

Heat-shield inspections of Orion were continuing at Kennedy, the agency said, and the sample lockers stayed sealed with no date set.

That inspection work started a week earlier. On Nov. 9, NASA said, technicians at Kennedy began examining Orion's heat shield as the astronauts opened their second week of debriefs. That night was the crew's 16th on land and Orion's seventh in its processing building.

The agency set its next full update for Nov. 16 at 10, the briefing that came Monday.
